Bath County Has Good Crop.

Deputy County Clerk, Chas. Bristow, who has been taking the census of the number of acres of tobacco being raised this year by members of the Burley Association reports that there are 4,500 acres being raised by those who signed contracts last year, and that those who signed the contracts, this year will probably run the amount up to 5,000 acres. If the average runs 800 pounds to the acre the total will be about 4,000,000 pounds of tobacco for Bath county. After making the report all the records were sent to headquarters and Mr. Bristow says that he does not remember the amount for each magisterial district but that Sharpshurg district would run about 1,850 acres and Wyoming about 430 acres.

Route May Be Changed.

It is possible that the National and State Highway Departments may change that portion of the Midland Trail from Mt. Sterling to Ewington. As the road now runs the C. & O. railroad has to be crossed twice and the cost of constructing two bridges and underpasses is prohibitive. The U. S. Government has declined to permit Federal aid on roads containing grade crossings. Therefore it is likely that the road will be switched to the Hinkston pike and starting at the farm of A. S. Hart and W. E. Foley and intersect the Owingsville pike just this side of Ewington. The survey shows that the distance between Owingsville and Mt. Sterling will be shortened about a quarter of a mile should this change be made.

Commission Fails to Name School Site.

The Commission which met at Frankfort Saturday for the purpose of selecting a site for a normal school in eastern Kentucky ended in a deadlock after eighteen ballots had been taken, there being four votes for Paintsville and four for Morehead. Sherman Goodpastor, of Frankfort; Judge Earl W. Seuff, of Mt. Sterling; Thomas A. Combs, of Lexington; and Judge Ed C. O'Leary, of Morehead, The Commission will meet again next Saturday in Lexington.

At a recent meeting of the Mt. Sterling Chamber of Commerce, ways and means were discussed for the completion of the road from Jeffersonville to the Powell county line. This road would be of great benefit to Mt. Sterling and Montgomery county and it would connect them with the rich oil section of Campton and Stanton.

Tobacco Is Fairly Graded.

Director of warehouses, Ralph M. Barker says that some growers have been laboring under the impression that they would have to bring their tobacco to one of the larger delivery points in order to obtain the best grading, and therefore, the best price. That is a mistaken idea Mr. Barker declared.

"One of the primary objects of the organization of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association," he said, "was to see that every tobacco grower gets the same price for the same quality of tobacco and to end the injustice of the old system of selling, by which one crop sold at 30c a pound and tobacco of equal quality sold for 15c a pound. It does not make any difference as to where the grower delivers his tobacco, he will get the same grading service, whether he delivers at one of the larger receiving points or at the smallest receiving point in the district. The graders of the association at these smaller points are men of just as much ability and of as high character as the graders at the largest point in the district."

Mrs. Katherine Wilson.

Mrs. Katherine Wilson, aged 89 years, died Tuesday night after a week's illness of pneumonia. She was the widow of Abijah Wilson, deceased. She is survived by daughters, Mrs. Ann Wyatt, of Montgomery county, Mrs. Luther Daniel, of Ashland, and Mrs. J. R. Wells, who made her home with her mother about one and one-half mile south of town. Funeral services were held at the grave in Owingsville cemetery Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. E. Wilhoit. Deceased was one of the county's oldest and most highly respected citizens and is survived by a host of relatives who have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

Prohibition Officer Makes Raid.

Last Saturday night Prohibition officer Robert Duff captured Fred Richardson near the depot in Winchester with eight pints of moonshine whiskey in an auto. Richardson waived examining trial and gave bond for his appearance before the Federal court at Lexington. The officers also took possession of the large Studebaker touring car in which Mr. Richardson had the liquor. Before arresting Richardson, the officers bought a pint of the moonshine to make sure of the product.

Salvation Army to have Mail Campaign.

Owing to numerous impostors canvassing from house to house in the same manner as the Salvation Army, the latter body has decided to conduct their appeal for funds by mail. The letter of appeal will be sent out before Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Jeff Denton, of Paris has returned from North Carolina where he had been attending the tobacco markets, and reports the sales averaging about 35c a pound, which is 10c a pound more than it brought last year.

What Kentucky needs is more conservation of trees with merchantable timber between their top and roots and less boasting about family trees which haven't the value of paw-paw bushes.—Courier-Journal.

John T. Kimbrough Jr., who is attending college at Davidson, N. C., writes his home folks that farmers in that neighborhood are very prosperous. Tobacco is bringing 30c a pound and cotton 26c.

What Farmers Need.

What the farmers need, and the fact should be kept in mind by the President and his advisors when pondering the problem of "permanent machinery" for the agricultural and livestock industries, is an opportunity to earn a net profit higher than the rates of interest they must pay.

If a farmer cannot earn a net return of six per cent upon his investment in land, improvements, equipment and livestock, plus a reasonable return on his work as a laboring proprietor or a proprietor-manager, no system of financing will keep him out of the hole.

A farmer should be able to borrow money as easily as a business man. He should be able to get money when he wants it, and to pay off notes when he is able to do so, without more waste of time or energy than similar transactions cost a merchant.—Courier-Journal.

I work in a tailor shop and that direct work has been very slack this year and I am home part of the time. I do not like to take any chances, so I consulted my friends, and one lady said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine,' so I did. I have felt better right along and am in good enough health to go to work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound and Sensitive Wash to all."—Mrs. Mary Enrico, 419 N. Carpenter St., Chicago, Illinois.

When I was a freshman in high school I had a crush on one of my teachers and was anxious to always appear at my best before her.

JAPANESE BARRED FROM CITIZENSHIP

SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST SUBJECTS OF MIKADO BE-COMING NATURALIZED

Decision Makes No Reference To The
"Gentlemen's Agreement" Under Which Japanese Immigration To America Has Been Regulated.

Washington.—Japanese cannot be naturalized in the United States and cannot become citizens of this country, the Supreme Court of the United States decided in its first construction of Federal statutes bearing on the subject. The decision was the first delivered by Justice George H. Sutherland as a member of the Court, and was handed down in a case brought by Takao Ozawa, who in 1914 applied for citizenship in Hawaii.

It is expected to attract wide attention not only in the United States, but abroad, notwithstanding the failure to make any reference of its diplomatic significance. The case has been pending long in the Court, and last term, when reached for argument during the Washington Conference of Armament Limitation and Far Eastern Questions, its consideration was postponed at the request of the Department of Justice.

No reference is to be found in the decision to the "gentlemen's agreement" under which Japanese immigration in the country has been regulated. The Government did not object to the argument of the case when it was reached at this term, and the Court advanced and heard at the same time the case brought by Takao Ozawa, who in 1914 applied for citizenship in Hawaii.

In an exhaustive analysis of the history of the legislation, the Court held that Section 2102 was in full force, and that, under it, Japanese could not obtain citizenship in the country.

To Visit Nine Cities
New York.—The Itinerary of Georges Clemenceau, Tiger of France, includes visits to nine American cities, and speeches in six of them, Colonel E. M. House, who is arranging the tour of the former Premier, announced.

There may be changes in the schedule, it was said, but as it stands Clemenceau will speak in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Washington and Philadelphia, and will visit Springfield, Ill., Baltimore and Annapolis.

Request Is Denied
Washington.—Government tonnage in the inter-coastal trade will not be withdrawn, the Shipping Board announced.

The Government ships should be withdrawn in justice to the private companies. Commissioner Chamberlain, designated by the Shipping Board to consider the request for removal of the Government tonnage, conducted a series of hearings and sent out questionnaires.

Ready To Depart
New York.—Commander Evangeline Booth has written in an editorial for the next issue of the War Cry, which she is ready to expect the order of General Brannan Booth, which will remove her as the head of the Salvation Army in America.

Concerted effort has been made by large organizations and prominent supporters to have the plan to remove Miss Booth dropped.

Joint for Dry Agents
Detroit.—The Federal "prohibition" operating in the Detroit River, suffered a reverse when United States Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd handed down an opinion that search of motors suspected of carrying liquor from Canada was illegal, unless the liquor agents first obtained a search warrant.

Prohibitionists had contended that to obtain warrants in each case would hamper the work of their department.

Cement Plant Burns
Detroit.—The Huron Portland Cement Company's distributing plant for this area was destroyed by fire here.

The property loss was estimated at $250,000. A dome-shaped screen, caused by the burning of 1,000,000 cotton sacks, handicapped the fire fighters, and a score of companies, along with fire boats, were required to control the blaze. The origin was not determined.

Old Building Collapses
New York.—Buckling under an overburden of tons of produce, the top floor of a five-story commission merchant's building in Washington street, collapsed, crashing through all lower floors to the cellar. One workman died from injuries. The building was 80 years old.

Suits of Armor Used
New York.—So powerful is the new X-ray machine exhibited at Columbia University at the opening of the national cancer week that the physicians operating it have to wear suits of armor.

Boys in the hospital can be photographed at a distance of 50 feet. The machine rays can go through a brick wall two feet thick. Rays are produced less than a fifth of a billionth of an inch in length, which means the shorter the ray the deeper it will penetrate.

Fine Feathers Lacking
Henrietta, Texas.—Mrs. Lee Gowan was awarded $10,000 actual and $500 exemplary damages from her husband, J. C. Gowan, in which attorneys said the first suit of his kind they had heard of in the state.

Mrs. Gowan's husband had been charged with breach of marital contract on the ground that he told her during his courtship that he was wealthy and could build a fine home for her, take her traveling and clothe her in a manner in keeping with her scale of living.

MANY ACRES SEED TO CORN

Value of Crop Greater Than the Combined Worth of Several Other Important Cereals.

Corn has revealed especial adaptability to various lengths of seasons, of various sections of the country, and at the present time we find varieties maturing in 80 days in the North and other varieties requiring 150 days or more in the South. Few appreciate the real importance of the American corn crop. Yet the fact remains that the American farmer sows more acres to corn than is represented in the combined acreage of wheat, oats, barley, rye, rice, buckwheat and flax. The value of the corn crop is also 25 per cent greater than the combined value of these crops for a given season.

The World war served to teach people the real value of corn and its manifold uses as a food. It is the main cereal food of the cotton belt. Considering the food value of crops grown on an acre of land, corn leads all, a 35-bushel crop producing nearly 150 pounds of protein and more than 3,000,000 units of energy.

Mental Activity Varies.

York, for example, people do the best brain work about the end of November or beginning of December, that is, a month or six weeks after their physical strength is greatest. In the spring, on the contrary, the best mental work is done in March, a month or two before the physical strength reaches the maximum. This means that people's minds are most stimulated in weather somewhat cooler than that which stimulates their bodies.—From "Principles of Human Geography."

its Pigmy Elephant

The first pigmy elephant ever sent from Africa recently arrived at the London zoo. It was shipped from the French gables. The adult male parent of this baby elephant was shot, and measured only six feet high. The baby is but two years old and stands only three feet high.

FEAR OF WAR IS DISPELLED BY NOTE

ANGORA GOVERNMENT AGREES TO ABIDE BY MUDANIA
PACT

Pending Peace Sessions To Be Held
At Lausanne—Turk Delegate Confers With Premier Poincare—Declares His Nation Wants Peace.

Constantinople.—Any immediate danger of a rupture between the allies and the Kemalists authorities seems to have been dissipated by receipt by the allies of a note from the Angora Government, declaring that the terms of the Mudania armistice pact will be respected by the Nationalists, and that there will be no insistence on the withdrawal of allied troops from the zones laid down in the Mudania convention.

The note, which had been awaited eagerly for several days, brought relief to the allied authorities and the population of the capital, who had doubted the intentions of the Angora Government. It is felt here that the unfavorable reception of the Kemal demands throughout the world caused them to reconsider their decision and adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

While all the clauses of the Nationalist note are not wholly acceptable or pleasing to the Allies, the document is considered to offer a reasonable basis for discussion and negotiation.

Paris.—Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation to the Lausanne Peace Conference, discussed the Near East Situation with Premier Poincare, and at the conclusion of the interview declared:

"I am in complete agreement with M. Poincare in his desire for peace. After a sleepless night and a busy day, Ismet received 50 or more correspondents at his quarters at the Hotel Crillon.

"If there are any fresh incidents at Constantinople, it won't be our fault," Ismet said. "We want peace also. You may be sure that whatever we sign we will not violate."

Ford Submits Plan
Columbus, O.—Officials of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railway, owned by Henry Ford, filed application with the State Public Utilities Commission for permission to issue investment securities to their employees. The amount is not to exceed $1,000,000 and the certificates are to be in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. Hearing was fixed by the commission for Wednesday, November 22, at 1:30 p. m.

Food Riots Reported
Berlin.—Symptomatic of times and conditions in Germany, hunger riots are reported from Dusseldorf, Cologne and Hamburg. In Dusseldorf there is considerable plundering of shops. Police are powerless and the municipal authorities have sent a request to the Allies for more police reinforcements. The request has been refused.

Posse Trails Gunmen

STILL EXPLODES; DEATH TOLL FIVE

BUILDINGS RAZED IN CHICAGO BLAST—OTHERS ARE MISSING

Brick Structure At Calderon Of Flame and Smoke—Fire Chief Displays An Extraordinary Exhibition of Heroism in Rescue of Several Families.

Chicago, Ill.—Explosion of a moon-shine still in a grocery followed by fire resulted in five deaths and possibly fifty of five missing children also being dead, destruction of two buildings and an extraordinary exhibition of heroism and good judgment by Chief Frank Brabrand, of the Fifth Battalion.

Although on the scene within a minute after the explosion, the fire fighters found the brick structure a cauldron of flame and smoke. The second floor was known to be the home of several families, with many small children. To turn the water into the building might have been dangerous to them.

Chief Brabrand donned a gas mask and entered the building through a window broken by the firemen. He permitted only his chauffeur, Charles Bratt, to accompany him.

Police and others to withhold the water until the fire was under control quickly ascended to the sleeping quarters, the firemen meanwhile being limited to fighting the fire in the basement.

It was 20 minutes before Chief Brabrand appeared carrying with him a child under each arm. He returned quickly and after he had brought out another child. Fear for Brabrand's life was felt by the anxious firemen, who were prohibited by his orders from attempting to go to his aid. Bratt meantime was bringing out other children, some alive, others dead. All were rushed to St. Mary's Hospital on the million to one chance that artificial respiration might restore life to them.

The known dead: Steve Bottino, 9 years old; Mary Bottino, 7; Antoinette Bottino, 3; Mrs. Jacob Verdone and her infant child. It is said that two others are dying in a hospital.

Jacob Verdone was the owner of the grocery. He escaped death and is in St. Mary's Hospital badly burned. The bodies of his wife and baby were recovered from the ruins, the baby tightly clasped to its mother's breast.

Joseph Bottino and his wife Josephina, were rescued and their three children saved were those brought out by Brabrand. Mary and Steve Bottino were alive when taken from the building but died later in the hospital. Jack, the eldest, who is 11 years old, and Louis, 5, were burned seriously.

A still was found in the ruins. Police learned that each day a batch of whiskey was cooked up sufficient only for the day's business. Verdone was placed under arrest in the hospital. Police estimated the capacity of the home distillery at 50 gallons a day. Besides the liquor violation charges, Verdone may be held responsible for the deaths of his wife and child and the other victims according to police.

PRISON FACED BY RADICAL
Two Year Fight of Wm. B. Lloyd, Rich Chicagoan, Is Ended

Chicago.—A two-year fight of William Bross Lloyd, wealthy Communist, to escape a five-year penitentiary sentence as a violator of the Illinois criminal law known as the "overthrow" law, ended when, according to word received here, Chief Justice Thompson, of the Illinois Supreme Court, announced he would deny Lloyd's motion to stay sentence until December 15.

Lloyd and eighteen other members of the Communist party were convicted in Chicago in August, 1920. They were accused of having advocating overthrow of the government.

Chief Clerk Vail, of the State Supreme Court, expected to issue the necessary papers for Lloyd's imprisonment. In addition to the prison sentence Lloyd was fined $2,000.

Dog Gives Blood
Oakland, Cal.—Blood transfusions from the veins of "Apache French," a pedigreed pup, to those of "Major," a Boston bull terrier, has saved the latter's life. "Major's" illness was caused by swallowing two ice cream spoons, which a veterinarian removed, but the shock and loss of blood nearly caused the death of the patient. The transfusion operation took an hour and a half. Both patients are recovering.

Handcuffed Man Flees
Sedalia, Mo.—Roy Kuehling, Washington, D. C., sentenced to serve five years in prison for having shot his wife, leaped from a train at Pilot Grove, Mo. He was handcuffed, but jumped when the train slowed down for the station, while Sheriff Z. R. Church was said to have been asleep. He was not found.

Oil Man Fined $2,000
Toledo, O.—The closing chapter of one of the famous cases of the criminal docket of the Toledo Federal Court came when Jesse C. McDowell, millionaire Pittsburgh oil operator, paid a fine of $2,000 and costs of $500.27. McDowell had been charged with having used the mails to defraud his former employer, Henry L. Treasury of the United States.
The treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys that may be deposited in the treasury at Washington and in the sub-treasuries, and in the national bank depositories.

He is the redemption agent for national bank notes, federal reserve bank notes and federal reserve notes; is trustee for bonds held to secure national bank circulation and public deposits. In national banks, and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks, is custodian of miscellaneous trust funds; is fiscal agent for paying interest on the public debt and for paying the land-purchase bonds of the Philippine Islands, principal and interest; is treasurer of the board of trustees of the postal savings system; and is ex-officio commissioner of the sinking fund of the District of Columbia. The office is filled by presidential appointment.

"Comforts" of Colonial Days.
In 1742 Benjamin Franklin brought out his "New Pennsylvania Almanac" a rather complete both coal and which grew into "Franklin's Almanac" of the color winter, a heat up at night round, and five inches metal top and This was filled with fireplace and placed in the bed room and the room was very plentiful and was used quite freely, the immense fireplaces consuming vast quantities of it.

Postman's Whistle Quiets.
There are few hours in the day when a New York apartment house is so quiet as the quiet of the Sun, of that city. Planes and phonographs and music lessons and ordinary human racket contribute to the volume of sound that doats through the building. But there are a few moments in every day when absolute silence reigns, a silence brought by the shrill whistle of the postman. Just as surely as the traffic policeman's whistle stops the stream of traffic does the postman's whistle stop the ordinary noises of the day. All in the building listen intently in the quiet that their own houses will be called out. The postman departs—and the temporary quiet ceases.

Sarcasm is Not Wit.
Native wit loses nothing when it is tempered by courtesy. A smart girl whose speech has never been governed by restraint is liable to degenerate into that social terror, the "lemon," whose every comment is like biting acid. There are rare occasions when sarcasm is as useful as a surgeon's lance, but who wants to be operated on unnecessarily? "Miss O'Byrne could use her tongue with telling effect—there is an Irish woman who cannot—but her cutting phrases were reserved for the cruel and the false." There, in Douglas Goldring's graphic phrasing, is a portrait of the born-clever gentleman who never uses her power of wit unfairly and discourteously.

Literary Snipers.
Librarians find that many readers delight in discovering errors in classical works and popular fiction and recording them on the margins of pages. Thus it has been noted that in "Around the World in Eighty Days," the hero reaches his club as the clocks of the town are striking "10 minutes to 10"; that in "Monte Cristo," the author or translator makes the crew stand by to drop anchor and leap to the sheets simultaneously; and that Haggard makes an eclipse of the moon take place when the moon is new.—New York American.

Power of Laughter.
Will a day come when the race will detect the funniness of these juvenile jokes and laugh at them, and by laughing at them destroy them? For your race, in its poverty, has unquestionably one really effective weapon—laughter. Power, money, persuasion, supplication, persecution—these can lift at a colossal humbug—push it a little—then a little more, and by century! but only laughter can blow it to rags and atoms at a blast.—Satan In Mark Twain's "The Mysterious Stranger."

Was Hylitical Monarch.
Prestor John was the title given to an imaginary Christian sovereign, who, according to medieval tradition, ruled over an extensive empire in the interior of Asia during the Twelfth century. This story is supposed to have originated in the stories of the Nestorian missionaries, who, in the Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, penetrated into eastern Asia and converted to Christianity one Ong, a king of Tartary. In 1177 Pope Alexander III dispatched an envoy, by Prestor John, but the ambassador never returned; and in 1254 Louis IX. of France sent Rabris, a French friar, to search for him, but the journey proved fruitless. In later years tradition transferred Prestor John to Abyssinia, where he continued his mythical existence as king of that country.

Art of Lighting.
At a meeting of an engineering society one expert expressed the opinion that the illuminating engineer can turn a cathedral square hall of a painter into a stage, by emphasizing the lights and shadows. He has confidence in the results to be obtained by a solution of the problem of luminous paint. He described a concert hall illuminated with a great variety of electric lights or modified by screens, so as to produce the effect of a vast, glowing, but harmoniously colored, oriental rug. He believes that in time there will be used twisted luminous tubes, and that means will be found better to make the atmosphere of a large room glow without the slightest visible means of illumination.—Washington Star.

The Question of Echo.
Rare walls are not the best thing in the world for the radiophone broadcast studio. Recently, one of the leading studios moved into a large, beautifully decorated room, with paneled walls and smooth, unbroken ceiling. Previous to that time, the studio had been in what had been the cloakroom of a factory office, where the bare walls had been hidden with draperies and rugs, while the ceiling was broken up by beams. However, the results obtained with the old studio room were excellent, for the reason that there was practically no echo or sound reflection from the walls and ceiling. The new studio room will have to be provided with tapestries or some other form of sound-absorbing hangings in order to reduce echo.—Scientific American.

Earth Always Meeting Meteoroids.
The earth in its orbit is constantly encountering meteoroids. These are countless small bodies in the solar system. Their velocity is so great that the resistance of even a rarer portion of atmosphere raises their surface to white heat, thus converting them into meteors, also known as "shooting" or "falling" stars, aerolites, fireballs, bolides, etc. The majority of these particles are entirely dissipated, but some pass out of atmosphere again and sometimes remnants fall to earth as meteorites.

Meadow Lark Useful Bird.
The meadow lark is a familiar bird of grassland throughout the United States. Unlike our eastern meadows, western prairies and southern savannas, its clear pipe as sweet and clean as silver, may be heard in spring, announcing the return of the season of procreation and growth. More than half of the lark's food consists of harmful insects. Its vegetable food is composed of either noxious weeds or weeds, and the meadow lark, in made up of useful beetles or neutral insects.

Egotistical Man.
In "God's Country," by J. O. Curwood, the author, who in early life was a big game hunter, writes: "I wish that some mighty power would rise that could show to man how little and how insignificant he is. Only therein, I think, could the thorns and brambles be taken out of that path to peace and contentment which he would like to find, and would find if he were not hindered by his own importance. He is the supreme egotist and monopolist. His conceit and self-sufficiency are at times almost blasphemous. He is the human peacock, puffed up, inflated, flushed in the conviction that everything in the universe was made for him. He goes out and murders millions of his kind with his scientific inventions; yet he calls a tiger bad and a pest because the tiger occasionally kills the two-legged thing that hunts it."

Love at First Sight.
Disraeli undoubtedly was great at pampering a queen. John Middleton Murray, at this late day, finds that he was funny in the love-making of his book people. Mr. Murray studied the case of Ferdinand and Henrietta in "Henrietta Temple," and became convinced that the other world intended to emulate Shakespeare, which was rash in the extreme, or that he had forgotten Shakespeare, which was careless." For one thing, the Ferdinand of Henrietta exclaimed, "There is no love but love at first sight."

One Knot Not for Him.
You know the man who'll fix it at the back of his neck, who wears a topknot, who brings you training table chow and wears your best in specious blun. He shares your room and guards your life, he is your good old N. A. "wife." But when you leave the portals wide and non-reg clothes don't have to hide, you wonder if a better half would give your hoary jokes a laugh, and stand your loud, est midnight snore, and sweep your ashes from the floor. Although I'd like a helipate neat, my back don't fancy Joe's feet. And though I fear my six guns, I'd hate to fix a rolling-pin. So when the chaplain knots in glue, I'm glad a knot is not for me.—Annapolis Log.

One of Sicily's Beauty Spots.
Sicily is one of the most beautiful lands of the Mediterranean. Taormina is one of her most beautiful spots. Greek colonists ages ago formed the early colony of Naxos at the foothills of Mount Etna, and out of that colony emerged the present Taormina. Etna is still an active volcano and in Sicily snow-capped Taormina is seen today more a Greek than an Italian city and the famous theater in the center of the town was built by Greeks. The unmistakable Helene type fingers on in the faces of the youths and in the melancholy eyes of the old people working in their lemon groves or vineyards.

"Flying Dutch." Legend.
The legend of the Flying Dutchman is of a Dutch skipper who, in the early part of the seventeenth century, was trying to round the Cape of Good Hope in the teeth of a succession of heavy gales, against which his clumsy craft was unable to beat to windward and gain any way. This Dutch skipper is said to have blasphemously defied the Almighty to keep him from rounding the cape, and declared that he would keep it at, in spite of heaven and hell, until he made it. He was taken at his word, and is supposed to be still at it. Imaginative sailors of bygone years, when encountering the ominous occurrence of heavy weather off the cape and a head wind, used to imagine that out of the mist they could see the galliot of the Flying Dutchman, with its dauntless captain standing on her high poop and shaking his fist at the stormy sky, as if he were saying that the odds are a fair one. I am sure that the Flying Dutchman has not appeared a great deal of recent years. In fact, few modern seamen have ever heard of the legend.—Adventure Magazine.

Doubling Up.
While Horace Mann, the famous educator, was sitting in his study one day, an insane man rushed into the room and challenged him to fight. "My dear fellow," replied Mr. Mann, "I would give me great pleasure to accommodate you, but I can't do it, the odds are a fair one. I am a man by name and a man by nature—that's two against one." "Oh, come ahead!" the insane man answered, "I am a man and a man beside myself. Let us four have a fight."—Boston Transcript.

But It Had to Be Done.
A typical, spectacled, absent-minded savant from an eastern university was a member of a geological survey outfit in Arizona. One morning he found that his watch was at a dozen stop and would not respond to shaking, rattling gently on the tent pole or any other stimulus. It was a fine chronometer movement, and the party was dependent on it for some of its observations, so they sent the old professor and a younger third man by wagon to a little town where there was a watchmaker. The watchmaker screwed the usual little hall-light into his eye, gazed upon the case, explored the works with his nutpick, closed the case, twisted the stem and handed it back, remarking very gently: "That's a fine movement—one of the best I've seen. But you'll have to wind it."

When the Best Brain Work is Done.
In general people's mental activity varies from season to season in the same way as physical activity, but there is an interesting difference in one respect. In the latitude of New York, for example, people do the best brain work about the end of November or beginning of December, that is, a month or six weeks after their physical strength is greatest. In the spring, on the contrary, the best mental work is done in March, a month or two before the physical strength reaches the maximum. This means that people's minds are most stimulated in weather somewhat cooler than that which most stimulates their bodies.—From "Principles of Human Geography."

There Are Dogs and Dogs.
Buster is five years old and is developing a spirit of independence and choice that his fond daddy loves to tell about. Buster is about to have a new birthday and daddy consulted him as to his desires in the direction of a birthday present. Buster without much deliberation asked for a dog. "What kind of a dog do you want?" asked daddy. Buster pondered awhile and then answered seriously: "I don't care what kind of a dog he is. He can be big or small or long haired or short haired or anything, but—" and his voice took on a tone of finality, "I don't want any jokes. The only kind of a dog I don't want is a 'hot dog.'"

"Traveler's Tree" Largely Myth.
Among the romantic stories of far-off lands that have long maintained their circulation and commanded more or less belief is that of the "traveler's tree," credited with possessing a reservoir of pure water. Efforts to save the lives of wanderers in the desert. An American scientist declares, from his own experience, that the tree grows only in the neighborhood of swamps and springs, and that, although it has a considerable amount of water in a hollow at the base of its leaf, the water possesses a disagreeable vegetable taste and, of course, is inferior to other water found in the vicinity.

DO YOU WONDER?
Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Clearwater, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell. . . .

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything, but the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything."

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there came a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months. . . .

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman. . . .

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui."—NC-151

The Grand falls of the Canadian Labrador are on the Hamilton river (also called the Grand and the Ashunip). This river rises in the Labrador highlands to an elevation of 1,700 feet, and after a precipitous course of 600 miles, empties into Melville lake.

Royal English Poets.
An amusing bypath in English literature is the study of the poetry—verse—written by several of our kings and queens. Certainly the best of our royal poets was Henry VIII, if, as seems probable, we can accept the traditional attribution to him of several charming songs. But the most voluminous verse writer of them all was James I, who published two volumes of poetry, and left many things in manuscript. The subject is brought to our minds by the fact that the Bodleian library has issued, as a supplement to its Quarterly Record, five poems by James I, printed in the Fell type from manuscripts in the library. . . . It is to be hoped that some scholar will one day give us a complete edition of the poems of the royal poet, who, though he was not a great poet, had at times a minor charm that is not unpleasant.—The Saturday Review.
